

Marly Clinic protects its systems with Avira's long-term solution

The Marly Clinic (Clínica de Marly) is one of Bogotá, Colombia's most renowned health-care institutions. Since its establishment in 1904, the clinic has been a pioneer in medical technology and know-how. Due to its excellent reputation throughout the country, the institution's professionals are regularly sought after by media to help shed light on medical matters that capture public interest.

The institution is well-equipped with state-of-the-art technology. Their computers are managed by an experienced and knowledgeable IT team dedicated to protecting the clinic's systems. The team operates by the same principle of forethought and thoroughness the clinic abides by when treating patients.

Recently, the Marly Clinic was in search of a highly effective antivirus software. They knew that malware threats should never be taken lightly. Different types of fraud can be committed when confidential data is breached, particularly information concerning patients and doctors. The clinic is fully aware of this and this is why they recognize discretion and security as top priority.

They required a solution that stimulated efficiency and reduced delays caused by a slow system. So they ran tests and compared the results with those done by independent laboratories. The assessment revealed that Avira offered an unsurpassed combination of effectiveness and speed. The IT team, together with Avira's local distribution partner, evaluated the clinic's infrastructural needs and defined a solution: the adaption of Avira's solution for a long-term basis.

Mr. Javier Fonseca, Head of Avira operations in Colombia, said "The Marly Clinic is one of our leading clients. They have made a firm commitment with us when to adopt this solution.

our partners, great care to meet all the client's needs. It is extremely rewarding to see the level of satisfaction stated in the customer service feedback reports."

During the pre-sales consultancy, the local distributor adapted all of the necessary materials to perfectly meet the clinic's requirements, which greatly contributed to the project's success.

Today, the Marly Clinic and their IT team can breathe a sigh of relief, knowing their healthcare experts and systems are protected by the best cyber defense system available.
